NO ROOM FOR BARLEY! Barley is a splendid food for lions sterling, while through sheer indifference and incompetence, our dollar exports of spirits is practically negligible. Without tiliage and more home-grown food neither pigs nor poultry, nor milk production, can be profitable. As against nearly thrice the ratio of tillage in Britain and quadruple ours in Denmark, we till but 15 per cent. of arable, wheat not reaching four per cent. Yet within recent months a Parliamentary Becretary was so silly as to suggest that the huge area under wheat left no room for the growing of barley, while in fact there was almost nine million. It is a summer to be producted in the peak period of compulsory tillage in 1945-6 we had 22 per cent. tilled and millions of the grown at the peak period of compulsory tillage in 1945-6 we had 22 per cent. tilled and millions of the grown at the peak period of compulsory tillage in 1945-6 we had 22 per cent. tilled and millions of the grown at the peak period of compulsory tillage in 1945-6 we had 22 per cent. tilled and millions of the grown of huge staffs it is but folical inactivity of huge staffs it is but folical inactivity of huge staffs it is but folical that the history and ancient our 17 millions per thousand of population, though it has but about 35 million acres in area as against only 35 million acres in area as against only 35 million acres in area as against only 36 million acres in area as against only 36 million acres in area as against only 36 millions per thousand of population, though it has but about 20 marea as against only 3600 acres in England or four-fifths of acres per unit as against only 3600 acres in England or four-fifths of acres per unit as against only 3600 acres in England on four-fifths of acres per unit as against only 3600 acres in England to huge folical in acres of acres per unit as against only 3600 acres in England to four-fifths of acres per unit as against only 3600 acres in England has 6,000 acres in England to support and acres of acres per unit as against only 3600 acres in England to support ac
